

Project Adventure is the leader in the field of infusing experiential learning into corporate training programs. We have worked with leadership groups, teams and employee groups, small and large organizations, designing rollouts as well as stand-alone training modules.

Project Adventure is renowned for its ability to design training programs and consulting interventions that are effective, engaging, and creative. An Adventure approach to a training or consultation is fun, with a serious agenda.

Enhancing Your Corporate Training Program through Adventure

Removed from familiar work surroundings and presented with challenges where participants know neither what to expect nor what is expected of them, they are free simply to participate. An Adventure experience then holds up a mirror to reflect back information about personal styles, modes of interaction, options, choices and potential. The resulting insight is usually immediate, surprising, and sometimes transformational.

Adventure consulting can be tailored to strengthen a corporate training effort. It can be configured to work in partnership with a company's in-house training staff. Or it can be the primary vehicle for change. Moreover, the activities and challenges can be customized to speak to, engage and ignite the thinking of a particular audience.

Adventure Is the Key for:

- Unlocking closed minds
- Stimulating fresh thinking
- Encouraging meaningful dialog
- Triggering learning that is transferable to the workplace

Project Adventure's Consultative Approach

1. Needs Assessment – identify your organizational goals and objectives
2. Program Design – align with organizational goals
3. Implementation – delivery of designed program
4. Evaluation of Program – determine next steps

Custom Design Program Options Include:

- High Performing Teamwork
- Enhanced Interdepartmental Cooperation
- Effective Leadership Skills that Improve Performance
- Instrumented Learning Tools and Assessments, e.g. DiSC Behavioral Profile
- Conflict Resolution & Diversity Training
- Change Management
